Musicians have always faced challenges and obstacles in the course of their careers but, in these unstable times, the challenges are increasing and becoming more complex. It's easy to feel daunted and underprepared.

The ISM Trust, the sister charity of The Incorporated Society of Musicians (ISM), has devised a unique one-day event to help support and empower musicians at all stages of their careers with the latest advice and insights to help them get ahead.

Join us on 4 October for an exciting day of discussion and discovery, with innovative musicians and leading music industry experts sharing their experiences, crucial insider knowledge and invaluable tips for success during four in-depth, interactive panel discussions. As well as stimulating discussions, the day will include live music and networking breaks.

During our panel discussions you will:

- learn the essentials of making it in music including contracts, copyright and royalties, publishing, marketing and promotion, PR and crucial legal know-how
- find out how to plan a project or commission from scratch and make it fly with advice from composers working in TV, film, gaming and orchestral settings, and record label experts
- discover ways of managing the unique stresses of being a musician. We will cover mental and physical health, nutrition and performance anxiety
- consider future trends and opportunities for musicians in the digital arena and find out how you can map out your career with technological advances in mind
- participate in important discussions and speak to our experts

The Empowered Musician will bring together hundreds of musicians and leading practitioners from across the industry. You will have the opportunity to network over refreshments, lunch and post-event cocktails, all of which are included in the ticket price.
